Told In Pictures is delighted to announce that 'Jim', the rock and roll radio drama by Josephine Halbert is now available on PRX. 'Jim', the 60 minute play, is the story of a 1960s transatlantic romance, created for radio, set against the backdrop of the psychedelic counter cultural movement that was speeding across the world and which inspired a generation.

Jim is a fictional story about youth, love and destiny, set in a different time. It is the 'muse's story', told to us by the point of view of the lover of a famous rock star, Jim, who has grown tired of the trappings of his meteoric fame and success. But it's theme is timeless, about the mystery and adventure of being young and in love and the experience of these early emotional awakenings.

Laura remembers her love affair with Jim, a well known American rock star, who she met by chance when she was a young, aspiring writer from London while visiting Palm Springs in the spring of 1968. We follow her story over a series of their meetings in California, London and Copenhagen when Jim is on a European tour with his band at the height of their fame.

Jim is the first radio drama created artist and filmmaker Josephine Halbert. It stars actors Charlotte Quita Jones (A SHORT EPIC ABOUT LOVE) and Cesare Taurasi (A.D., THE BORGIAS, THE MAN FROM U.N.C.L.E., A SHORT EPIC ABOUT LOVE). Josephine commissioned rock band Desert Mountain Tribe to write original music for the soundtrack for Jim to evoke a sense of the era including a classic love song Never Stop which the musician hero, Jim, in the play, writes for the heroine. She produced the music under her Ammadore Records label and is the rights holder to the music in this production.
